Fossil post office was established on February 28, 1876, at the ranch of Thomas Benton Hoover on what is now Hoover Creek. It is interesting to note that the post office will be celebrating its 100th anniversary in the same year this country celebrates its 200th anniversary, in 1976.

Fossil was named by Hoover for fossil remains that he discovered in a clay-like formation about the ranch house on Hoover Creek. (The more renowned fossil beds are in the present town of Fossil, located behind the Wheeler High School). The Hoover family has had tremendous influence on this part of Wheeler County and through marriage has been linked to other families in the area, Kelsays, Scoggins, Chambers, Bowermans, Reinharts, Reisachers, Steiwers, Edwards and many more, if you trace into the latter generations.

Some of the earliest settlers, besides Hoover, were Lafayette and Woodson Ivory Scoggin, who settled on what is presently the site of Fossil. (Woodson Scoggin left for Portland in the late 1800's and helped organize the first Portland Traction Company.) David Hamilton settled about three miles south of Fossil and engaged in sheep ranching and a lumber operation. James Washington Chambers was Hoover's father-in-law and the first white man to settle in the Fossil vicinity, arriving there in 1869. George McQuinn settled four miles east of Fossil on Butte Creek, and one William Bigham was a partner with Chambers in the raising of race-horse stock.

In 1881 Thomas Hoover and Thomas Watson, admiring the location of the confluence of Butte and Cottonwood creeks as an ideal townsite, established a store at the present site of Fossil and moved the post office to that store. The town was platted by George H. and W. S. Thompson who had also moved a store to the town. In 1884 A. B. Lamb established a drug store, which was also a liquor establishment.

Finally in 1891 the town was incorporated, with Mr. Hoover as mayor, and

W. W. Steiwer, B. Kelsay, P. Potterton, and C. W. Halsey as councilmen. In 1889, the Fossil Water Company was formed; and with the sale of $15,000 worth of bonds, in 1900 the gravity system of water-which is still in operation today-was installed.

The Methodist church was established in 1883 and the Baptist and Catholic churches were erected a couple of years later. A Caledonian Club was organized in 1900 to "bring the Scottish people of the area in closer touch with one another."

In 1899 the Wheeler County Oregon Pioneer Association was formed with Henry Wheeler as president. Minutes of that first meeting described the day at Kelsay's Grove in Fossil:

"Pursuant to notice and in accordance with an invitation extended to the Pioneers of Eastern Oregon by the citizens of Fossil to participate in the ceremonies of celebrating the Fourth of July, there assembled fully 75 of the old timers, who were duly placed in the van of the procession, forming a very conspicuous portion thereof. "Arriving at the grove, where seats were reserved for them, they listened to one of the most patriotic, and up-to-date orations (by the Honorable Frank Davy of Salem) ever delivered in the City of Fossil, in which the speaker did not fail to give the pioneers a beautiful and well deserved tribute. At the conclusion of the services at the grove, they reformed and marched in procession, headed by the Fossil Brass Band to the Donaldson Hotel, where they partook of a grand Fourth of July dinner.

"After dinner they re-assembled at the grove and proceeded to form a Pioneer Association by calling H. H. Hendricks to the chair and appointing J. D. McFarland Secretary.

Mr. H. H. Wheeler was elected President, Mr. R. G. Robinson was elected Vice-President, and J. D. McFarland was elected Secretary and Historian. W. W. Steiwer was elected Treasurer, Thomas Watson, David Hamilton and P.E. McQuinn were elected Directors for one year.

A vote of thanks was extended to the citizens of Fossil for their hospitality and after an hour or more spent in congratulations and neighborly visiting the meeting was adjourned. To meet again in Fossil on the 3rd of July A.D. 1900."..... J. D. McFarland, Secretary
